The Clarence Jaycees offer two scholarships for students who have overcome a hardship.

James E Grosse Memorial Scholarship

James E. Grosse (Jamie) had kidney problems, among others, and was on dialysis. He was partially disabled as a result and used crutches and sometimes a wheelchair to get around. He ended up living into his 20's when many thought he would not make it that far. He was said to have had a great attitude, got involved in the community, went to the senior prom, graduated from high school and went on to attend college.

Candidates for the scholarships should have a positive attitude and have had to overcome hardships on their way to college. Please explain in writing the hardship you have overcome. We also would like to know something about you – brief description of your childhood, family, interests, jobs (if any) and community service. Please hand in your essay to your counselor.
